Preamble. Parker Library on the Web is a web-based workspace for the study of the manuscripts in the Parker Library at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (hereinafter the Product.) The Product was developed jointly by Corpus Christi College and Stanford University. To make the Product broadly accessible to interested parties while safeguarding its content from unauthorized commercial uses, and to ensure that the costs associated with maintaining the Product can be met, Corpus and Stanford have agreed to license the Product to educational, cultural and related institutions worldwide. By separate agreement, Corpus and Stanford have designated Stanford to act administratively and contractually for both parties. This Agreement is therefore made between Stanford, as Licensor of the Product, and the undersigned Licensee. It specifies how the Product is made available by Licensor and may be used by Licensee.

Definitions. The following terms, used in the Agreement, are hereby defined:
Authorized Site means the premises used by Licensee for general operations, research, curation, instruction, exhibitions and related activities.
Authorized User means all currently enrolled students, faculty and staff of Licensee, including remotely located users who are authenticated by Licensee's servers or systems, and walk-in users who use Licensee's premises with Licensee's permission.

License Fee means a one-time fee, paid prior to the commencement of access, that gives Licensee the access rights described herein.

Maintenance Fee means an annual fee, first paid together with the License Fee and then on the annual anniversary date of the Agreement, that grants access to all updates and enhancements of the Product made during the term covered by the Maintenance Fee.

Licensor's Agent means the party, acting under the terms of a contract with Licensor, designated to handle all business and customer service transactions involving customers, Licensees and Authorized Users of the Product.

1. Description of Product. Parker Library on the Web is a web-based information product jointly developed by Corpus Christi College, the Cambridge University Library and the Stanford University Libraries, and hosted by Stanford University. The Product consists of content in the form of static information pages, manuscript page images, page images of secondary sources, manuscript descriptions, and bibliographic data; and links between bibliographic records and certain full-text files; and software that enables users to explore, sort and navigate this content. The software consists of searching, browsing and display services. Licensor expects that most of the Product's content will persist without change for the life of the Product, but intends to provide additional bibliographic data as new scholarship is created and additional page images for some secondary sources, and Licensor may update or replace page images and/or manuscript descriptions if errors or omissions are found over time. Some new functionality may also be added to the search, browse and display services software. Licensor will maintain the site in accordance with generally accepted industry standards and will migrate Product services to new or modified software and platforms as necessary and appropriate. The Product's information pages contain additional information about the Product.

2. Basic Agreement. In consideration of the License Fee paid by Licensee, Licensor grants to Licensee a non-exclusive, non-transferable right to use the Product in accordance with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

3. Applicable Fees. Licensor's Agent shall be responsible for quoting, invoicing and collecting the License fee and the Maintenance Fee in accordance with Agent's standard business practices. Fees shall be deemed paid when they have been remitted to and received by the Agent. The License Fee covers Licensee's right to use the Product, and Product content, in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, indefinitely. In addition, for as long as Licensee wishes to access the Product via Licensor's server over the Internet, and provided that Licensor maintains the Product on said server, Agent shall invoice Licensee for an annual Maintenance Fee. If, at any time after the first anniversary of the Agreement, Licensee elects to discontinue payment of the Maintenance Fee, Licensee and its Authorized Users will lose access to the Product on Licensor's Server. However, Licensee shall still be entitled to receive a copy of the Product's content as it existed at the end of the period covered by the last Maintenance fee paid, and to offer that version of the content to its Authorized Users as specified in Paragraph 5.

4. Terms of License. Licensee and Authorized Users may access the Product over the Internet via Licensee's Internet Protocol addresses, which shall have been furnished to Licensor, via Licensor's Agent, prior to the commencement of access. Registration by individual Authorized Users may be required to utilize some of the Product's functionality. Licensee agrees that it will make reasonable efforts to ensure the compliance of all Authorized Users with the terms and conditions of use, and will take remedial action promptly if evidence of unauthorized use is reported by to Licensee by Licensor or Licensor's Agent.

5. Local Copy. At any time after the first anniversary of this Agreement, Licensee may request that Licensor deliver to Licensee, a single electronic copy of the manuscript page images, manuscript metadata and bibliographic records, for local use at the Authorized Site(s). Using software and services of Licensee's choice, design and implementation, Licensee may provide local access to the Product's images, manuscript metadata and bibliographic records, for its Authorized Users only, in perpetuity. Licensor shall provide the single copy for local use in generally accepted formats suitable for each data type, along with reasonable documentation, but shall have no obligation to consult, troubleshoot or otherwise assist Licensee to adapt, convert, process or otherwise manipulate the data for local use. The single copy for local use will be provided for a one-time charge that Licensor's Agent will quote on request, except as provided in Paragraph 9, below.

6. Permitted Uses of Content. Authorized Users may download and reproduce individual page images and other small, discrete portions of the Product, in paper or electronic form, and redistribute same for research, classroom and personal use. Neither Licensee nor any Authorized User may sell, publish or exploit for commerce any portion of the Product without first obtaining the permissions specified in the Copyright Notice and Disclaimer found at <http://parkerweb.stanford.edu/parker/actions/page.do?forward=copyright>, which is specifically incorporated into this Agreement and made part hereof. Exactly the same permissions and limitations on permitted use apply, in perpetuity, if and when Licensee has taken delivery of the single electronic copy described in Paragraph 5, and offers such content for use by its Authorized Users.

7. Online System Warranty. Licensor shall use reasonable efforts to provide continuous availability of the Product, subject however to periodic unavailability due to maintenance of servers and/or software, or downtime associated with repairs and/or database restoration. Licensor shall not be responsible for failures of communications or other third party equipment, or for services outside its control.

8. Disclaimer and Limitation of Liability. Although Licensor believes the Product to be reliable, Licensor does not guarantee its accuracy, completeness or reliability, or warrant its suitability for any use. Licensor provides the Product on an "as is" basis. The same disclaimers shall apply to any copy of the Product data provided by Licensor to Licensee pursuant to Paragraph 5 of this Agreement. In no event shall Licensor be liable for indirect, special, punitive or consequential damages, nor shall Licensor's liability hereunder, whether arising in contract, tort, strict liability or otherwise, exceed the amount of the License Fee.

9. Discontinuance of Product. Licensor intends to keep the Product available via the Internet for the foreseeable future. If Licensor shall, at some future time, elect to discontinue support for the Product, its obligations to Licensee under this Agreement shall be discharged by delivering the single electronic copy of manuscript page images, manuscript metadata and bibliographic records specified in Paragraph 5. If Licensor discontinues support for the Product, the single electronic copy for local use will be provided without additional charge to Licensee.

10. Term. This Agreement shall begin whenever both parties shall have signed it and continue until Licensee permanently discontinues use of the Product or its content. If Licensee wishes to terminate this Agreement after it has taken delivery of the single electronic copy described in Paragraph 5, it shall destroy such copy and any other copies it may have made, delete all such copies from its computer systems, and certify such destruction and deletion to Licensor. Until or unless such certification is received, relevant sections of this Agreement, especially Paragraph 6, shall remain in force.

11. General. Each party acknowledges that it has read this agreement and agrees to be bound by its terms. The Agreement may not be modified except in writing, duly executed by both parties. If any provision of this Agreement is held invalid, illegal or unenforceable under applicable statute in any relevant jurisdiction, it shall be deemed omitted, but the balance of the Agreement shall be construed to give greatest possible effect to the original intention of the parties. Licensee may not assign or create sublicense under this Agreement with any other party. Waiver by either party of any right provided in this Agreement shall not be deemed a waiver of such right in the future. Both parties to the Agreement are independent contractors, not partners or joint venturers, and neither shall have any right or authority to commit the other in any matter or thing whatsoever.
